Course Overview and Purpose
This class is designed to be an introduction to psychotherapy and behavior change. Through readings, role-playing, observation and class discussion, the student will acquire an understanding of how to become an effective therapist. The course will have a dual focus of a) introducing the student to the evidence base for various approaches to psychotherapy and behavior change and methodological issues relative to conducting psychotherapy research, and b) acquiring the skills and understanding the content (what is overtly said and done) and the process (what is happening on a conceptual and covert level) of psychotherapy in general. We will focus less on various theoretical orientations to psychotherapy. We will review what are considered to be state-of-the-art empirically supported treatments of common psychological conditions. We will discuss issues related to the therapy intake and first therapy sessions, recognizing transference, resistance and handling the “difficult patient.” Students will be encouraged to appreciate their role as therapist and the power of the therapeutic relationship/alliance as most strongly determining treatment outcomes, above and beyond intervention techniques. Reading assignments are selected to highlight empirical, methodological and practical aspects of psychotherapy (engaging clients, effecting change, and negotiating roadblocks as well as maintaining professional boundaries and managing ethical conflicts and responsibilities).

Relation to Program Outcomes
Graduates of the UF CHP graduate program in clinical psychology are expected to become licensed practitioners in their future positions. They may focus on research but they are also expected to be fully competent practitioners. This is the first and main course preparing graduate students as providers of psychological treatments. Dedication to the tasks of this course will prepare our graduate students for that role in graduate school and throughout their careers.

Course Objectives
Upon successful completion of the course, students should be able to:
1. Describe the research literature in general terms with respect to findings regarding empirical support for treatments of those common psychological conditions covered by our texts.
2. Describe the distinction between process and outcome in psychotherapy.
3. Detail the conceptual underpinnings of the empirically supported treatments being reviewed.
4. Demonstrate knowledge of the material via weekly quizzes, active classroom participation during reviews of material.
5. Demonstrate basic process skills of active listening and empathic responding in interactions with role-played clients.
6. Develop interventions for a broad range of conditions not specifically covered, using the principles learned in this course.
7. Provide a general conceptual framework for the psychotherapeutic enterprise across the spectrum of psychopathology.
8. Demonstrate basic practical skills with regard to record generation (note-writing) and management (development of problem list and treatment plan).
9. Review basic methodological issues relevant to conducting research in this area.

Instructional Methods
Completion of quizzes, lecture with group discussion, and focused skill-building role-play exercises will comprise the majority of class sessions. The role of the instructors will be to: present an overview of selected topics from the readings, provide additional reading material and learning resources with up-to-date research findings, encourage active participation in discussions of the material, guide the role-play exercises and provide timely performance feedback. Expectations for students are to attend class fully prepared, read assigned materials prior to class in preparation for lecture, participate actively in discussions, and embrace the role-play exercises so as to allow assessment of one’s basic clinical skills.

Course Policies

Expectations Regarding Course Behavior:
You are expected to attend every lecture well prepared to participate actively in discussions of the reading material. You are responsible for demonstrating your understanding (or lack thereof) of the material via comments that you initiate. Critical comments are welcome as long as they contribute to open ongoing discussion.

Unless otherwise instructed, please refrain from using tablets, laptops, cell phones or any other electronic devices during class as it is distracting and inconsiderate of other students and the instructor.

Please do not arrive late to class or disrupt the class as it is distracting and inconsiderate of other students and the instructor.

To the extent permitted by facility rules and restrictions, you may bring food and/or beverages to class as long as it does not interfere with your ability to work and/or participate in class and as long as it does not interfere with your ability to work and participate in class, and it does not annoy others. You will be expected to clean-up after yourself and dispose of all trash before leaving the classroom.

Policy related to make-up work:
Attendance of class is mandatory. Three or more unexcused absences will result in failure of the course. Missed classes due to illness will require demonstration of making up missed work and experiences. If students must be absent, it is expected they will contact the instructor as soon as possible and be responsible for any missed material. Students who miss lectures are expected to acquire lecture notes from other students who attended.

We expect you to attend and to be prepared to participate in all class sessions. Personal issues with respect to class attendance or fulfillment of course requirements will be handled on an individual basis. If you must miss a class because of a foreseeable conflict (i.e., professional conference, athletic competition, religious observance, etc.) you are expected to notify us immediately to set-up alternative arrangements prior to the date when you will be absent.

Please note all faculty are bound by the UF policy for excused absences. For information regarding the UF Attendance Policy see the Registrar website for additional details:
https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx

Reporting illnesses and family emergencies:
In the event you experience an unexpected illness, family, or otherwise personal emergency please notify us immediately to set up alternative arrangements. You must provide clear evidence that you have made up any and all work and training experiences that you missed.
What is expected of you:

Examinations on reading assignments will be administered at the beginning of class. The examinations will assess student learning of therapeutic procedures, understanding of the evidence base for treatment approaches, and methodology for establishment of empirical support for treatments. Depending upon the number of quizzes administered, scores will count for approximately 30% of grade.

The student is required to observe some number of sessions of ongoing therapy cases with advanced students or faculty. You will also attend at least two supervision sessions on those cases (more is better). The student will write a problem list, treatment plan, and three session notes for the case being observed. The quality of written materials will determine 20% of the course grade.

The student is expected to participate in classroom discussions and role-playing activities. Instructors and TA will observe and evaluate the quality of each student’s participation in these activities. Participation as subjectively assessed will count for 50% of the course grade.

Extra Credit:
No extra credit is offered for this course.
